PASS ANGLER DROWNS

IN OLDMAN RIVER

Fishing in the waters of the Oldman River about 150 yards east of dam at the outlet of Crow's Nest Lake, four miles west of Coleman, Matthew Brennan, 31, son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Brennan of Coleman, apparently slipped in the stream and was drowned Sunday forenoon.

The fatality was reported by Joe Jenkins of Coleman who notified the body just before noon and notified the authorities. Dr. E. J. Lesmer of Coleman was called, and on examination stated that Brennan had been dead for several hours.

No one was with the fisherman at the time of the accident and it is not known how it happened. No inquest is likely as it appears to have been a clear case of accidental death.

Funeral was held from Holy Ghost church in Coleman on Wednesday.

JURY DETERMINES

DEATH ACCIDENTAL

Inquiring into the death of Arthur W. Hunter, who was killed at Lundbreck on Thursday evening when struck by a length of oil casing, a coroner's jury returned a verdict of accidental death at the inquest held in Blairmore on Saturday morning. Evidence at the inquest revealed that a clevis on a coupling had broken allowing the pipe to fall on Hunter. The jury consisted of W. Melnyk, foreman; L. Purcell, C. Sartoris, F. Diamond, J. A. Macdonald, and J. Yanota. Dr. Macpherson was the coroner.

We haven't heard any cases or frozen water pipes the past two weeks.

THE MOUNTAINEER

RESUMES SERVICE

For the first time since 1941, the Mountaineer, through train from Chicago to the Canadian Rockies, resumed service when it left Chicago on its initial trip June 28.

Bound for Banff, Alberta, Lake Louise, and Vancouver, British Columbia, the Mountaineer, which will run daily through Aug. 28, is a joint operation of the Chicago & North Western, Soo, and Canadian Pacific roads.

Canada has been growing in popularity with travelers from the States, the many years of friendship between the two nations making it possible for one to cross the border with less difficulty than encountered anywhere else in the world.

One of the leading vacation attractions in Canada are unquestionably the Rockies that tower to tremendous heights over beautiful hotels and lakes. The route of the Mountaineer takes the traveler in Canada through Moose Jaw, Saskatoon, Medicine Hat, and Calgary, Alberta, past rugged Mount Eisenhower and across the Great Divide, through the famous Spiral Tunnels, the Yoho Valley, and Kicking Horse Pass.

Banff and Lake Louise are noted not only for their natural beauty but also for the informal comforts of their chalets and lodges. The scenes are given that extra Canadian flavor by the presence of the celebrated, red-roofed Royal Mounted Police.

On the trip between Calgary and Vancouver, passengers may look at the passing scenery from an open-topped observation car. A similar convenience is available with the plane-topped sight-seeing buses that take guests through the mountains on the new Columbia Icefield highway.

Hiring Blairmore in a hunt way, and conflicting with the Cattle River Stampede, the University Players performed to a small audience on Wednesday evening last. Their three plays were ably presented and gave a varied program. The scenery and costumes were effective. The third play, Johnny Dunn, was particularly appealing as it had an Alberta theme. The choral work in this was exceptionally well done.

OUR COMPLETE SHORT STORY—

KEYS

By T. CARTER DODD

STUBBORNLY Barney Thorpe refused to leave the office or his work until the last estimate was checked and filed away. Refused in the face of the ominous warnings that blared forth from the radio at his elbow.

"Go home at once. The storm is rising to hurricane proportions. Go home at once. Quickly."

The rain battered violently against the window. Looking at the radio I said with all the urgency I could summon.

"Don't you hear that warning, Barney? Don't be a fool."

We were alone in the office. He had sent the girls home an hour ago. Though not yet five o'clock of an autumn afternoon it was dark outside. And that driving rain and ugly wind. It was not pleasant to hear it nor think how nasty the nearby Long Island Sound waters must be.

"Oh that radio," there was cool disdain in Barney's voice, "they're too nervous. Besides it'll only take a few minutes more here. Go on down like a good fellow and wait in the car for me. You know, the one behind Harry's jalopy."

Barney jerked my head away from the window and the storm to look at him. His face was clouded, his eyes cold.

"Yes, I know the car," I replied, and could not for the life of me refrain from adding, "I should, after all these 15 years. What fools two brothers can make of themselves."

Then I went out quickly. Much as I liked Barney Thorpe I never did relish bearing the brunt of his wrath. It could be terrible where his brother, Harry, was concerned, terrible in more ways than one.

Downstairs, on the street level, peering through the heavy glass door the storm appeared worse, if that were possible. There were no intermittent gusts. There were no moments, none at all, when one might make a dash for the car. On the contrary it was a ceaseless savage brutal assault on the face of the building. The wind and rain battered with unrelenting fury.

Deep down in my heart it frightened me. The waters of Long Island Sound, a quarter of a mile distant, must be pretty ugly by now.

Across the street a light, blurred and faint, showed where Harry Thorpe's cigar store stood. Harry had not gone home. Was he going to ride out the storm in his place? Or was he too busy delaying? It would serve both brothers right.

And that purpose? Every day they delayed too long. If they both got caught. But then, and I shook my head, I would be in the same boat. My irritation mounted.

Stubborn old fools. All the Thorpes. Just 15 years ago Harry had proposed opening the store. He was going to put all his savings into it because he was sure it would be a grand success.

Equally positive it would be a terrible blunder Barney told him profanely not to. Warned him he was courting disaster.

Harry was stubborn, opened the store and now still had his original jalopy. Barney was stubborn, swore that his brother was a fool and bought himself a new car every year, when there were cars. Not because he needed one but because he wanted it for a purpose.

And that purpose? Every day he parked that car right behind Harry's jalopy just to prove how right he, Barney, was. And how terribly wrong the contrast Harry was. Every year the jalopy got older but every year Harry appeared to grow more content. And Barney more like a

Every day for 15 years. And not once in all those 15 years, not for one single fleeting second, had he had a heavy hand on my arm. Not having heard a sound I jumped. It was Barney. "It looks kind of nasty," he said soberly.

Who waited for it to get nasty, I felt like retorting? We made a dash for the car and were soaked before we had gone ten feet. The car Barney fumbled for the keys and I peered out into the storm. Harry was at the window of his shop. He looked lonely.

"Damn!" said Barney. "I can't find my keys." He searched every pocket and then started in all over again. The devil was in me. "Harry looks nice and dry," I remarked sourly.

"Double damn!" said Barney, still hunting. "Hope the motor starts," I added. "What in thunder?" he growled, "have I done with my keys."

"Maybe Harry'll give us a tow," I said wickedly.

"Maybe I'll bust his face," he shouted. "I must have left those

At that instant I saw Harry sloshing toward us. Barney gave no sign that he saw him. But he did crawl over me to get out. He went out one door even as the door on the opposite side was opened. Whether by design or no they missed each other. I looked at Harry and my irritation boiled over.

"You're both fools," I said angrily, "why don't you break down and talk to each other. I'd like to break your necks."

To Harry's credit it must be said that he looked kind of foolish. He dropped some keys on the car seat. He was soaked.

"Mine," he said, "I thought he was stuck. Tell him he can have my car. I'm staying."

Then he was gone and for the moment I didn't know whether to curse him or praise him. Two stubborn old fools. They had not spoken to each other for 15 years and each was obviously determined not to be the one to break that record.

Because, as Barney said, "he called me an old fool," and because, as Harry said, "he can't tell me what to do."

Barney reappeared. He looked as if he had fallen into the Sound with his clothes on. He saw the keys. "Whose are they?" he demanded suspiciously. "Harry's," I told him, he said to use his car."

With a face as black as the storm Barney sloshed off into the wind and rain. He went straight for Harry's store. I could see him as he opened the door. Then he closed it and came back.

"I hung 'em in his face," he growled. "He'd better mind his own business."

By now I was speechless from fury. It was so utterly assinine. I started to say, "at least he saved his life," but I saw that he was not. He was less of everything except my wrath. So I missed, at first what Barney saw. Abruptly, he shouted, and his voice was full of horror, even as he flung himself out of the car."

"Quick! Run for your life. Oh my God! A mountain of water."

Then I saw it. A great wall of water rolling along the street. Straight toward us. It looked as black as ink and as terrible as night.

At such a moment one does not know what one does. One acts from instinct. And what one does is beyond all reasoning. The next thing I knew I was leaping madly up the fire escape with the water swirling about my legs.

Safe on an upper landing on the side of the building I stopped. A river of water churned about below me. Across the street the light in the cigar store still shone. The driving rain blurred my vision. But not entirely. I could see into the store and what I saw was forever after stamped into my mind. A living, lightning-flash picture.

Inside that cigar store were two men, shoulder to shoulder, struggling with the water. One was Harry Thorpe. The other was Barney. They were both soaked. The lights went out.

No Reduced Postage Expected

OTTAWA.—Postmaster General Bertrand held out no hope to the Commons that there would be any return to the three cent stamp or to any other pre-war stamp prices.

He met E. B. McKay (COP—Weyburn) with a chuckle and a prepared answer when he was asked if, in view of continuing departmental surpluses, there would be any reduction.

The four cent stamp, he said, actually carried a two cent tax and if there was to be any cut it would be a budget matter. It was not considered wise to cut back prices because coats were above wartime levels.

The United States had done that and had lost $402,000,000. Canada's stamp sales totalled $55,000,000 last year. A one cent cut would chop off $11,000,000.

PRINCESS HAS CAR

Princess Elizabeth has acquired her first automobile, which she will drive herself. Like all other cars owned by the Royal Family, it is a Daimler, although lighter than those used by the King and Queen, and bears the license number "HRI 1".

Great Lakes ore carriers with 10,000-ton capacities can be loaded in 90 minutes, but it takes four hours to unload them.

GOOD ROADS NEEDED TO MAINTAIN TOURIST TRADE

OTTAWA.—A gigantic road-building program is needed to maintain Canada's tourist trade, expected to be the biggest in history this year, the Senate Tourist Committee was told.

"This year Canada should have the three biggest tourist months in the history of this country—July, August, and September," said Leo Dolan, head of the Canadian Travel Bureau, adding that "there's got to be a tremendous road-building program from Nova Scotia to British Columbia—if we want to keep the tourist trade."

Canadian highways had been the target for most of the criticism made by tourists. In addition there had been some complaints about meals, and the roadside cabins which "weren't as good as they ought to be."

Earns Money By Staying In Bed

BERLIN.—Bread is worth more than wages to Germans today according to a Berlin citizen summoned before a court to explain his refusal of a job offered by the Labor exchange.

He asked the magistrate, "Why should I work if I can earn more than double a week's pay by staying in bed?"

"I am not lazy nor ill, but also I am not a fool. I stay in bed until noon, which means I go without breakfast. In a week this means I save a loaf."

"Every Saturday I sell the loaf I have saved and get for it twice as much as the wages for the job the exchange offered to me. Why should I work if I earn that much and avoid paying taxes by staying in bed?"

EVERY EDITOR KNOWS

A. J. Smith, M.P. for Calgary West, says members of Parliament are "the world's champion recipients of useless papers." The Ottawa Journal states Mr. Smith hasn't seen what the postman delivers every day to every newspaper office.

McNeil told Willie Gallagher, Communist, that Foreign Secretary Bennett, the Foreign Minister Edouard of France went "to considerable lengths to meet the claims of Soviet Russia" in the Paris talks which ended without agreement between Russia and the two western powers.

A government spokesman said Britain would go ahead with plans to expand her trade in Eastern Europe.

He did not attempt to conceal the fact that Russia's decision to eschew the Marshall proposal for European reconstruction had been a foregone conclusion to the government.

Nutritional Diseases Being Stamped Out

LONDON.—Nutritional diseases will be stamped out in Britain within 10 to 20 years, Dr. Edith Summer-skil, parliamentary secretary to Britain's Ministry of Food, declared.

For the first time in the history of the world the same milk ration, this equal sharing of food would cause rickets and other nutritional diseases to become as rare as smallpox cases in about 10 years time, Dr. Summer-skil said.

Britain To Stand By The U.N.

LONDON.—Great Britain, taking the lead with France in setting up a new organization to plan the reconstruction of Europe, will stand by the United Nations with "unwavering loyalty," Minister of State Hector McNeil said.

McNeil made the statement when asked by C. L. Lipson, Independent, in the House of Commons whether the newly-proposed all-European body would keep in close touch with the United Nations European economic organization.

However, he did not answer Lipson's question directly.

The Minister of State was questioned briefly after he read the British-French communique proposing the formation of a new organization to assess Europe's resources and needs.

McNeil told Willie Gallagher, Communist, that Foreign Secretary Bennett, the Foreign Minister Edouard of France went "to considerable lengths to meet the claims of Soviet Russia" in the Paris talks which ended without agreement between Russia and the two western powers.

A government spokesman said Britain would go ahead with plans to expand her trade in Eastern Europe.

He did not attempt to conceal the fact that Russia's decision to eschew the Marshall proposal for European reconstruction had been a foregone conclusion to the government.

Nutritional Diseases Being Stamped Out

LONDON.—Nutritional diseases will be stamped out in Britain within 10 to 20 years, Dr. Edith Summer-skil, parliamentary secretary to Britain's Ministry of Food, declared.

For the first time in the history of the world the same milk ration, this equal sharing of food would cause rickets and other nutritional diseases to become as rare as smallpox cases in about 10 years time, Dr. Summer-skil said.

FOOT SPRINGS

Mechanism of the foot includes "springs" and not "arches" according to a leading authority, who declares that the old belief in "fallen arches" is as false as the medieval theory that the earth is flat.

In a publication entitled "Care of the Feet", which is being made available through government health departments, this expert advises special care of the "springs" and the adjustment of footwear which permits free functioning of all the bones in the feet. He deplores the practice of putting pads in shoes to build up the "arches."

COLOUR BLINDNESS

Colour blindness is mentioned by modern medical science as a serious handicap in these days of speed and multiple machinery. Defective colour vision is usually hereditary, and is more common among males than females.

While little can be done for some, authorities say that defective colour vision is sometimes a symptom of a complaint which can be cured, and those who have difficulty in distinguishing between the primary colours are urged to consult their physicians, since their trouble may arise from correctable deficiency conditions.

"Haven't I seen you somewhere?" asked the young man.
"Quite likely," replied the girl, "I've been there."

Mr. Brown (desperately): "If you wear that to church tomorrow, you go alone!"

NOT GUILTY

Newspapermen who have long winced at the popular notion that the business entertains a plethora of drunks now have facts to fight it. The Keeley Institute said today that of 12,012 cases of alcoholism treated between 1930 and 1946 at the institute, only 95 were newspaper editors or reporters. The largest single group, the report said, were honest farmers, followed by salesmen. During the period, 280 doctors were treated, and 133 bartenders.

MILK FOR ADULTS

Nutrients supplied by milk are important to adults as well as to children. Even after our bodies and bones are formed, there is continual breakdown of body tissues, and milk furnishes much of the protein needed for rebuilding them. Milk also is important in maintaining the normal functioning of the nervous system.

If you don't like milk "straight", medical authorities suggest you make the adult's requirement of from half a pint to a full pint per day, in other beverages, in milk puddings or in sauces.

(Royal Bank of Canada

HEALTH

Health also demands attention. After their first collision with white men, Indians tended to sicken and degenerate physically. They left their tents and became shack and cabin dwellers. They knew nothing of the sanitation needed for close-living permanent communities. They forsook their diet, rich in vitamins, and turned to bread and lard. They became easy prey to tuberculosis and deficiency diseases.

Statistics are hard to come by, because of the scattered nature of Indian settlements, and such as there are prove to be contradictory. D. C. Scott reported in 1931 that tuberculosis is about five times more common among Indians than among the general population. Dr. E. L. Stone, Superintendent of Medical Services, Indian Affairs Branch, told the 1939 Conference that while the death rate from tuberculosis in all the population, including Indians, in a recent year was 59.7 per 100,000 persons, "the alleged death rate from the same cause among Indians was 769.3 per 100,000." He went on to say: "In our opinion the figure for Indians is exaggerated," and pointed out that about 20,000 Indians live in remote areas where "the registrars of vital statistics lack the knowledge necessary to determine accurately the cause of death, and the tendency is in these and in better organized districts to assign all deaths to tuberculosis unless there is some other obvious cause. We cannot tell to what extent the statistics given are distorted. If the figures are accepted at their face value, Indians are some thirteen times as tuberculous as white persons in Canada."

Whether five times or thirteen times, there were only 900 tubercular Indian patients being given treatment in hospitals of various types, according to the report of the Indian Affairs Branch for the year that ended in 1946.

Infant mortality is another matter about which it is hard to arrive at definite figures. The Montreal Gazette said editorially in May last year: "Indian health is a constant problem. A study by the medical service of the Indian Affairs Branch, published in the Canadian Medical Journal in March of this year, said the infant mortality rate among the Indians should be reached the astounding figure of slightly under 400 per thousand live births, as compared with the white figure of 52. Such health conditions in any section of the population menace the whole."

Indians are disqualified from old age pension benefits and pensions for the blind, but they receive full benefits under the Family Allowances Act. The 1946 annual report of the Family Allowances Division said: "It would appear through reports of Indian agents and others that allowances have resulted in considerable improvement in food and clothing available to Indian children." There were 16,215 families registered at the beginning of 1946, representing 47,621 children.

INDIANS ARE NOT A
VANISHING RACE

This suggests that the Indians of Canada are not a vanishing race. The best estimate available is that there were about 200,000 Indians in what is now Canada to the time of the European invasion. The Indian Affairs Branch takes a census of Indians every five years, and the latest, in 1944, showed a population of 125,686 Indians. This was an increase from 118,378 in 1939 and 112,610 in 1934, or 11.7 per cent in ten years. Today's population is divided in this way: Ontario 32,421; British Columbia 25,815; Manitoba 15,933; Quebec 15,194; Saskatchewan 14,158; Alberta 12,441; Northwest Territories 3,816; Nova Scotia 2,364; New Brunswick 2,047; Yukon 1,531, and Prince Edward Island 265.

This minority race, amounting to a little over one per cent of the total population of the Dominion, has not the rights and powers of British subjects or Canadian citizens. Indians may become enfranchised, but great carelessness is exercised by the government because Indians who become enfranchised lose the special protection provided by the Indian Act. In most cases those who take up full citizenship are people who have left the reserves, abandoned the Indian way of life, and are living as white people in settled communities. There were 314 persons enfranchised during the last fiscal year reported. It is not surprising that many, especially the older people, cling to the reserves open to them. It must be said that the reserves were not intended to be concentration camps. It was thought that they would become training schools in which the Indians could learn to adapt themselves to modern conditions, from which to graduate as full citizens. "By this means," said Hon. T. A. Crerar when he was Minister of the Department of Mines and Resources, "it was thought Canada might honourably discharge her obligations toward the native inhabitants of the Dominion, and, at the same time, by encouraging the Indians to become self-reliant, change a grave financial and social burden into an asset."

There is set aside for use by the Indians 5,571,000 acres, of which only 189,000 acres are under cultivation. This sparse agricultural development is not such a shocking state of affairs as the pars figures might be taken to indicate. According to the eminent Sir John Lubbock in "The Origin of Civilization" the North American Indians seem, as a general rule, to have no individual property in land. To own and develop tracts of farm land would, therefore, be contrary to their ancestral custom, and agriculture is not one of their strong points.

Income of the Indians from all sources—agriculture, fishing, hunting, trapping, livestock, and wages earned—amounting to $143 per person in the fiscal year which ended in 1946. They had 2,200 personal savings accounts with total balances amounting to $383,594.

A Need For Doctors

PUBLIC ATTENTION HAS BEEN DRAWN frequently in recent years to the shortage of doctors in Canada. In some rural communities lack of sufficient medical services has been extremely serious, while even in many of the larger centres there has been need for a greater number of doctors. The Canadian Press recently made a survey of the situation in Western Canada. The figures which were compiled in this survey showed that British Columbia has more medical men in proportion to its population than any of the other Western Provinces. That province has approximately 1,400 doctors, or one to every 785 persons. Manitoba has the next highest percentage, with 726 doctors, making one to 1,022 inhabitants. Alberta has 689 doctors, or one to every 1,200 persons, while Saskatchewan has 577 physicians, or one to one to approximately 1,500 people.

All Physicians Are Not Active

The figures for the whole of Canada indicate that there are more than 12,000 registered physicians, which makes one to every 900 people. However, as previous figures showed, in provinces where the rural population is high the number of people to each doctor is much more than 908. It must also be considered that although there are actually 12,000 registered physicians in Canada, all of them are not devoting their full time to the practice of medicine, some of them being engaged in teaching, medical research, or some form of administrative work. Although considerable effort was made to gather statistics on the subject, it is pointed out that the figures vary constantly as other doctors reach retirement age and new ones enter the profession. However, the figures do show that many doctors must have more than a normal amount of demands upon their services, and that some districts must lack adequate medical facilities.

Help Is Needed In Other Lands

In spite of the apparent shortage of doctors here, Canada has more physicians per capita than any other country in the world except the United States, China, with some 400,000 people has less than 12,000 doctors. That country has need for the services of 200,000 doctors, while Ethiopia, with 12,000,000 people has no doctors or trained nurses. Sixty per cent. of the doctors in Czechoslovakia were executed or died in German concentration camps, leaving that country with an acute lack of medical services. While Canada has no surplus of doctors, it is apparent that we could render great service to devastated nations by sending medical personnel to help them at this time. The answer to the problem would appear to lie in training more doctors here. Canada has fine medical schools, with very high standards, which at all costs should be maintained. However, if more facilities could be made available for training doctors at this time, it would relieve the shortage here, and also enable Canada to help those countries whose needs are so great.

War Reporter Travelled 80,000 Miles

—$422,329.383 PAID OUT

OTTAWA—Health Department officials who disclosed that $422,329.383 had been paid out in family allowances between July 1, 1945, and July 1, 1947, said an estimated $30,000,000 of the total payments had been recovered through income tax in 1946, but that no estimate was available for 1945. Since Jan. 1, 1947, the allowances have been made part of the income tax exemption system and are not taxable.

The officials said the $30,000,000 figure was only an estimate because an accurate figure could only be obtained by going through the income tax returns of each and everyone who received family allowances in 1946 when a total of $240,454,428 was paid out.

OIL BOOM IN CANADA'S WEST

NEW YORK—Canada is now experiencing the liveliest oil boom in its history, as more than a score of companies race against time to discover the new domestic supplies which the Dominion needs urgently, according to The Lamp, publication of Standard Oil Company (New Jersey).

Imperial Oil Limited, Canadian affiliate of Jersey Standard, recently brought in a well near the prairie town of Leduc, and this development has given impetus to the search in which 10 major companies are taking part, the publication added. The new well is 16 miles south of Edmonton, and has been called "the most encouraging initial flow since the discovery of Turner Valley field." To date, The Lamp pointed out, Leduc No. 1 is producing a good 38 degree gravity crude, which the refiners like because it yields a maximum of the gasoline and other light products needed by the prairie farming population.

It is ironical, the Jersey Standard organ stated, that Canada—with a per-capita consumption of oil second only to the United States—last year imported 63,000,000 barrels, or 89 per cent. of the 71,000,000 barrels its refineries processed. Since all geological evidence indicates that the Dominion has ample undiscovered oil reserves of its own.

TORONTO.—Sixteen new service centers for Canada's 14,679 blind persons will be built across the Dominion within five years, Col. E. A. Baker, the Canadian Institute For The Blind's managing director, announced at the institute's 29th annual meeting recently.

Two centers are under construction in Kitchener, Ont., and St. Catharines, Ont. Plans are going ahead for others in Ottawa, Windsor, Hamilton, London and Toronto.

TOURIST TRADE IS IN FULL SWING—INDICATING A BANNER YEAR

One of Canada's greatest industries—the Tourist Business—is in full swing now, with every indication that this will be a banner year, shattering all the marks established in 1946 when visitors spent more than $212,000,000 in Canada.

That $212,000,000 figure is impressive, but its implications frequently escape us. To compile it, for instance, sufficient automobiles crossed the border to stretch, four abreast, from the Atlantic to the Pacific—and there was an additional 1,000,000-odd visitors who came by air, boat, train or bus. All-in-all, that $212,000,000 means that Canada this year can expect to play host to almost as many visitors as she has residents.

Thus, a new golden era in the Tourist Industry has been born—and the glory of it is that every Canadian individual and business benefits from the industry. Each tourist dollar, like a stone dropped into a pond, starts a chain reaction of benefits that extends through the hotel, resort, restaurant and gas station through to the farmer, the builder, and to every other type of enterprise in the country.

Experts say that, properly handled, the business of entertaining guests from other countries will within the next five years make more jobs for Canadians than any other phase of the country's economic life. It is a business that can be expanded to a position where it might well do for Switzerland where one-seventh of the entire population was supported solely by tourist receipts.

Truly, the tourist industry is one that has no smoke stacks and yet its value to employment and prosperity for Canada is almost incalculable.

All of which brings home one highly important truth. Just as every person in Canada benefits from the Tourist Industry, so every person in Canada should—from self-interest if for no other reason—take a direct interest in seeing that the industry develops and grows by making Canada a more pleasant place to visit.

The Tourist Industry could very well divide into insignificance if visitors can't get what they are seeking in Canada.

The tourist wants good food—that is the responsibility of the restaurateur. He wants good accommodation—that is the responsibility of the hotel and resort owner. But above all the tourist wants pleasant surroundings and a friendly atmosphere—and that is the responsibility of every Canadian.

FOULKES SAYS CANADA NOT TO BE BATTLEFIELD

CALGARY.—Recent talk of Canada being a second Belgium in another world war "is all poppycock," said Lt.-Gen. Charles Foulkes, Chief of the General Staff at Canadian Army Headquarters, Ottawa, after he arrived in Calgary recently on a tour of western army installations and military schools.

"There is no substantiation for such talk in fact," he declared. "A little simple arithmetic would prove this." He went on to explain his contention by pointing out the difficulties an invading army would experience in supplying itself in the north-land.

But the senior military officer of the Canadian Army did not rule out entirely possibility of an attack on Canada. "Just because geographical factors kept this country from being a battle ground in the past is no reason to believe they will continue to safeguard the country."

"We've got to convince our countrymen on this point. In a day when planes can fly non-stop from Tokyo to Cairo there is no telling what can happen," Gen. Foulkes added.

Mountain Climbers Suffer From Altitude

FAIRBANKS, Alaska. — Turned back 3,000 feet short of their goal—the 30,270-foot peak of Mount McKinley—by the altitude sickness of one of their party, three University of Alaska mountaineers were at the Mount McKinley National Park.

Morton Woods, 23, of Boston, suffered from the altitude at 17,000 feet and his companions, George Schumann, 22, Santa Maria, Calif., and Gordon Herred, Santa Maria, Calif., decided to abandon their mountain climbing.

They brought him down to the 11,000-foot level where he recovered quickly.

Health LEAGUE OF CANADA presents TOPICS OF VITAL INTEREST

Water in Ear

If you have acute or chronic ear trouble, be careful where and when you go in the water this summer, say the National Health wardens. Water may get into the middle ear and may allow entrance of infection, which could then spread to the inner ear and the mastoid sinuses.

It is suggested that those with ear trouble consult their family physicians as to the advisability of taking part in aquatic sports.

Dive for Safety

Unless you can dive, when you go in for a swim, you should certainly hold your nose as you take to the water feet-first for, say the health experts, water forced up into the nostrils can carry infection to nose, throat and sinuses. Man isn't like the duck, which can close its nostrils under water. And, unlike the duck, human beings haven't that special eyelid which protects the eyes under water, so swimmers should try to see when submerged as rarely as possible.

Past Play-Time

Middle-agers should resist the temptation to indulge in violent physical exertion on their annual holidays. Health people at Ottawa warn: "Those who live sedentary lives can't suddenly become 'sports' with safety, particularly if they are past the play-time of life. The family doctor, familiar with their normal types of activity, should be consulted about the type of recreation which will benefit them, and not harm them."

Hay Fever Note

Sufferers from hay-fever and so-called "hay-colds" should avoid swimming during seasons when they are most subject to those unpleasant disabilities, according to health authorities. Those who suffer severely from hay-fever are advised to think twice before they go swimming at all. Chronic inflammations of the nose and throat make this advisable.

BELGIAN URANIUM ORE SUPPLIES FOR BRITAIN AND U.S.

BRUSSELS.—Premier Paul Henri Spaak said that war-time arrangements placing uranium ore supplies from the Belgian Congo at the disposal of Britain and the United States still were in effect.

"It was necessary during the war," Spaak told the Belgian Senate, "to assure our allies of material necessary for atomic energy. Arrangements are still current. The Government hopes that an agreement for the control of atomic energy will soon intervene. The Belgian Government will then adapt its legislation on uranium to conform with international organization."

SANDY SIMPSON has been patiently improving his dairy herd. He saw his chance to buy a pure bred bull—and the manager of his bank lent him the ready cash to close the deal. Now he's expecting great things of his new calf; already he sees her winning her class at next year's Fall Fair. A few more like her and he can also see his milk production rising—as well as a nice extra income from selling his surplus stock to neighbouring farmers.

Branch banks, in rural communities across Canada, help to build prosperous farms . . . and at the same time help increase the flow of food to family tables both at home and in distant lands.

EVERYBODY'S BUSINESS

In the eyes of employers, "lack of initiative" is considered the most serious fault a worker can have. It is an insidious and dangerous fault.

For most of us, pride of achievement and desire for bigger earnings provide plenty of drive. But we may suffer from temporary loss of enthusiasm in our work due to illness, personal problems, or emotional upsets.

At such times it is desirable to take all possible measures to prevent these conditions from becoming chronic. The advice of a physician or close friend may help. So may a frank talk with your employer whose attitude will probably be very understanding.

Sometimes a man has little or no interest in his work. This may not be his fault. A change of job or additional responsibilities may be all he needs to make him "spark". But far too many men are in a rut because they are just plain lazy. To them I can only say: You'll be far happier if you give your job everything you've got!

The life insurance business in Canada has grown to tremendous proportions because it renders a needed service and is efficiently managed. In 1946, approximately $165,000,000 was paid out in life insurance benefits.
